The planning profession provides a broad and ever-evolving range of opportunities to find fulfilling careers. In Meaningful Work: The Rewards of Planning in the Public and Private Sectors, former public planner and current planning consultant Beth Elliott will compare and contrast the rewards and challenges that come with working in the public and private sectors.

2:15-2:30pm – Gather (light refreshments provided)

2:30-3:30pm – Program

3:30-4:00pm – Informal conversation

About Beth

Beth Elliott is a Principal at Stantec who leads both Stantec's Midwest Planning & Design Team and downtown revitalization work inside its national Urban Places virtual studio. She works with communities large and small to set long-range policy frameworks, engage diverse audiences through creative strategies, and implement land use policies through on-call planning services. Prior to joining Stantec, Beth spent 14 years as a public sector planner for the City of Minneapolis, including 11 years as the Principal Planner for Downtown Minneapolis.

Beth has a Masters in Urban and Regional Planning from the Humphrey School of Public Affairs at the University of Minnesota. She is a member of the American Planning Association and Lambda Alpha International as well as certified through the American Institute of Certified Planners.
